

CAREERS AND GRADUATE STUDY

IN THE BIOLOGICAL SCIENCES

FREE ONE-DAY WORKSHOP

INCLUDING...
LUNCH
EARLY EVENING SOCIAL OPPORTUNITY TO WIN ONE
OF 10 $25 AMAZON GIFT CARDS

Who? Underrepresented students in the biological sciences who are interested in biodiversity, field biology, ecology, and evolution, including African and Black Americans, Native Americans, and Latinos, Chicanos, and others of Hispanic ethnicity.

When? September 6, 2014, 10:00a.m. to 6:30p.m.

Where? The Field Museum of Natural History, Chicago, IL.

Photo courtesy of the Florida Museum of Natural History

Why? Gain valuable advice from graduate students and professionals in the field of biology. Get EXCITED about YOUR FUTURE!

For a complete agenda, more information, and registration please visit:

<http://tinyurl.com/biocareerswrkshp>

For further information, feel free to e-mail: Gil Nelson (gnelson@bio.fsu.edu)

This workshop is supported by a grant from the National Science Foundation, award #1358501.

