

Time: "Can we have all of these georeferenced before June."

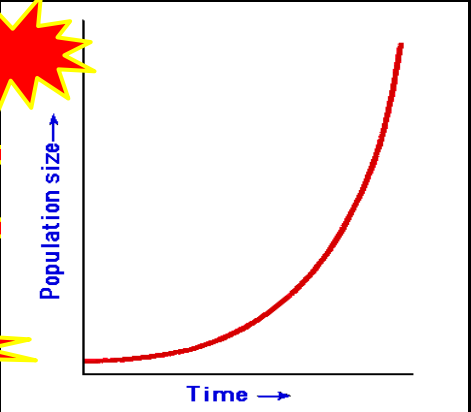

People: "I'll gladly share my data. Just not with [name left intentionally blank]."

Quality: "I didn't know my data entry personnel were putting all the host data in the habitat fields."

Self: "OOPS!"

Community: "Yeah we are gonna need those data in this totally new format since the last time we talked."

Career: "So are you a bioinformatician?"

Do we have realistic expectations of how many people it takes to handle the data?
